Subject: Your articles redux

Dear Friends,
During the summer I contacted you about making your articles available on the new Indiana University Maurer School of Law's Digital Repository. During the Repository's start-up we loaded your articles published since 2008 as well as all articles you may have written that were published in our three journals. Now we are ready to begin uploading ALL of your journal publications and I am hoping to get blanket permission from you to post these materials. Of course, if there are any of your articles from these journals you do not want made available on the Repository, I will be more than happy to exclude them. I am also in the process of drafting suggested language for you to consider for any future publication agreements so that you can retain the right to repost your materials on our Digital Repository. Finally, we will be scheduling lunch presentations about the Digital Repository later this fall.

As always, please feel free to contact me if you have any questions.

Thanks!
Keith
