INTRODUCTION

This bibliography has been compiled as part of the sesquicentennial celebration of the Indiana University School of Law, Bloomington. It represents a complete listing of the published works of the Indiana University School of Law faculty throughout its 150 year history. The size of the bibliography alone demonstrates the scholarly productivity of the faculty through the years.

Only permanent, full-time faculty are included, with two exceptions. Ambrose Carlton was appointed as Professor of Law Pro Tem in 1856-57 when James Hughes took a one year leave of absence to fill a seat in the United States Congress. Because he was the only professor of law at the time, it seems fitting that his name appear with the permanent faculty of the Law School. Amos Hershey has also been included, although he was a member of the Political Science faculty. During his time at Indiana University he routinely taught an International Law course for the Law School and published extensively in this area. Therefore, it also seems appropriate that he be included in this publication. In 1972, librarians at Indiana University were granted faculty status by action of the Board of Trustees. Because of this, librarians at the Indiana University Law Library since 1972 have been included in this bibliography. Although the assistant deans do not hold faculty rank, they appear in the bibliography because of the administrative nature of their work. In its 150 year history, there have been 151 permanent, full-time faculty; 17 librarians with faculty status; and 5 assistant deans at the Law School.

All works published prior to the time of the individual's arrival at Indiana University and throughout the faculty member's tenure at the Law School are listed in the bibliography. It does not include items published by the faculty member after leaving Indiana University. Also appearing are works at press for current faculty if the expected date of publication is by the end of 1992. In compiling the bibliography, we attempted to contact each current and former faculty member in order to ensure the accuracy of the publication.

This bibliography is the collaborative effort of the librarians at the Indiana University School of Law, Bloomington. However, it could not have been successfully completed without the assistance of many others. We would like to thank Colleen K. Pauwels for her advice and encouragement; Ellen Ravens-Seger for the many hours spent making revisions; and George Rogers and Lisa Stimatz for the tremendous effort of cite-checking the entire bibliography. And last, but not least, we would like to thank the faculty for their cooperation and patience in working with us to make this publication possible.
