AN INNOVATIVE LEADER FOR CHANGING TIMES

Austen L. Parrish joins the IU Maurer School of Law as Dean and James H. Rudy Professor of Law on January 1, 2014. Before his appointment, he had been serving as Interim Dean of Southwestern Law School, Los Angeles, succeeding former Indiana Law Dean Bryant Garth.

Law schools must be bold, collaborative, and innovative if they want to thrive in today's competitive market, and they must leverage those qualities to prepare students for success. The Maurer School of Law is that kind of school. And we have chosen a dean who shares our values, one who has experience in moving a school forward with innovative ideas and bold action.

During his 11 years at Southwestern, Dean Parrish led the development of a new curriculum, improved alumni relations, oversaw the school's largest-ever capital campaign and construction of new student residences, expanded clinics and externships, and enhanced the school's recruiting and career placement programs.

Austen Parrish is the right person — at the right time — to lead the Maurer School of Law in the next phase of our long and illustrious history.
