CONSERVATION LAW CENTER

Volume I, Issue 11- December 29, 2017

2017: Water, Water, Everywhere

On this year's list of matters, we saw a theme: water. Water conservation requires our attention as we look to the future. To address the demands of a changing climate, rapid development, crumbling natural and manmade infrastructures, and other issues, we published and promoted a technical study on the state of Indiana's water resources, celebrated water during our first Water Quality Month, and represented several clients on matters that affect water quality.

This year we also represented clients on forest, land, and threatened species matters and hired two new Graduate Fellow Attorneys to help meet our growing workload. We expect 2018 to be just as- if not more- busy than 2017. Thank you for your support of conservation and making this work possible. Happy New Year!

CLC's 2017 in Numbers:

36 New Client Matters
16 Interns
13 Grant Awards
6 New Clients
3 New Employees
1 Governor's Proclamation

Friend of the Month

This month's Friend of the Month is CLC Board Member,
Glenn Scolnik.

Glenn is a Senior Partner, Hammond Kennedy Whitney & Co. and has served on Board since 2007 and has been instrumental in our growth and development. Thanks for your service and generosity, Glenn!

This Month's Highlighted Species is the Polar Bear

Status: Federally Threatened

Our neighbors to the north are having a hard time dealing with the changing climate, and though you'll never see one down here, we think it's important to conserve their melting habitat. Polar bears are at the top of their food chain and hold the role of keeping their marine ecosystem healthy and balanced.

A Word From Lily Bonwich

Hello, Friend!

Wow! We were busy this year and it's all thanks to your support of conservation. One of this year's major takeaways for me was Water Quality Month in August. It was our first attempt at pushing a social media campaign and it went really well!

Not only did we get some recognition from the Governor of Indiana, thousands of people were also learning and appreciating water as a valuable resource. We couldn't have expected a better response!

Thank you!

Lily Bonwich
