Follow this and additional works at: https://www.repository.law.indiana.edu/bop

Part of the Legal Education Commons, and the Legal Profession Commons

Recommended Citation
https://www.repository.law.indiana.edu/bop/27

This Magazine is brought to you for free and open access by the Law School Publications at Digital Repository @ Maurer Law. It has been accepted for inclusion in Bill of Particulars by an authorized administrator of Digital Repository @ Maurer Law. For more information, please contact rvaughan@indiana.edu.
Bill of Particulars
Indiana University School of Law-Bloomington Alumni Association
Summer 1981

Library Addition Approved
See page 2
In our cover photo, Bloomington's School of Law Library had just opened when this 1956 shot was taken. At that time, the collection contained some 82,000 volumes which the school had collected over the past 100 years. Today, the collection includes more than 200,000 volumes, and this spring the Indiana General Assembly approved Phase One of a project to expand the library's facilities. (See story, page 2.)

Bill of Particulars is published twice each year by the School of Law-Bloomington Alumni Association in cooperation with the Indiana University Alumni Association, and is mailed to all graduates of the School of Law.

School of Law
Dean
Sheldon J. Plager
Assistant to the Dean, Editor
Kris Kindelsperger
Indiana University Alumni Association
Executive Secretary, Publisher
Frank B. Jones
Associate Alumni Secretary
Robert J. Stebbins
Constituent Publications Coordinator
Susan R. Clark

TABLE OF CONTENTS

Phase One of Building Addition Approved
After a successful "Building for the Future" campaign mounted by the School of Law and its alumni and students, the Indiana State Legislature has approved Phase One of a plan to expand facilities in the Law Library. Construction on the addition may begin this year. 2

Carl Gray Advocacy Program Proves Successful
Because of the generosity of IU alumnus Carl Gray, the School of Law has been able to support a broader and more varied interscholastic advocacy program. The results? IU teams entered seven major competitions this year, and placed third of 250 teams at the national finals. 3

Law and Amateur Sports
In the most comprehensive program presented since its inception, IU's Center for Law and Sports will host a conference on Law and Amateur Sports this August. The program will feature more than 20 national experts in this fascinating field. 4

Alumni Profile: C. Ben Dutton
A "lawyer's lawyer," Ben Dutton is well known for his progressive ideas about legal reform and court modernization. Long active in Alumni Association activities, Dutton explains why alumni should keep in touch with their alma mater. 5

DEPARTMENTS

President's Message .............................................. 1
Student News ................................................ 6
School News .................................................. 8
From the Foundation .......................................... 9
Faculty News ................................................... 10
Alumni News ................................................... 11
President’s Message

Dear Law Alumni:

As President of the Law Alumni Association, it is my pleasure to announce the details for the Bloomington Law Conference this Fall. The conference will be held on October 2nd and 3rd and the focus of this year’s program will be Law and Sports. As you may know, the Law School was fortunate to receive an initial funding grant from the Lilly Foundation for the establishment of a Center for Law and Sports on the Bloomington campus.

On Friday, October 2 we will feature a speaker nationally prominent in the field of sports law, followed by a panel discussion. This will be followed by a Friday evening banquet. On Saturday we will continue the tradition of the Student-Alumni Football game, the Race Judicata, and other enjoyable activities. There will be a pre-game luncheon at noon followed by the IU-Michigan football game, which promises to be an exciting game. A reminder to many of you — the following classes will have special reunions: the Classes of 1976, 1971, 1966, 1961, 1956, 1951, 1946 and 1941.

A mailing regarding the Fall Conference will be coming to you shortly. I hope you will be able to join us this Fall for what promises to be an interesting and entertaining conference.

Sincerely,
Jerry Moss
Phase one of building addition
Authorized by Indiana Legislature

The General Assembly labored late into the night of the last day of the 102nd Indiana General Assembly to pass its most essential pieces of legislation. At 10:40 p.m., the House took up House Bill 2018, the state's construction budget. The bill represented the compromise efforts of the Conference Committee and had been passed earlier in the afternoon by a 45-0 vote in the Senate. As the minutes ticked away to the final hour, the House passed the bill, 89-8.

Under provisions of the state's construction budget, IU was granted bonding authority for the following projects:

- $5 million for Phase One of an $11 million project for an addition to the Law School Library in Bloomington.
- $12.9 million for an addition to Jordan Hall in Bloomington. Jordan Hall houses the Department of Biological Sciences.
- $6.5 million for the purchase of new computer equipment.

The success of the building campaign was noted by Dean Sheldon J. Plager who stated, "We are all very grateful to the many members of the General Assembly who supported the Law School library addition project." He added that he wanted to thank the alumni and other friends of the Law School who supported the project. "It was a state-wide effort," he said. "I would not want to single out any group of persons or organizations for fear of missing others. Our work is not completed, however, until the project is fully funded."

In the spring of 1980 the Indiana Higher Education Commission granted $146,000 for initial planning and design work. The Eggers Group of New York City has been chosen as the architectural firm. Detailed plans and schematics for the project are in the final stages. The Eggers Group is the firm which designed the building now housing the Law School, which was completed in 1956. Professor Craig Bradley, chairman of the Building Committee, noted that initial aspects of the construction may begin as early as the end of 1981, with the final completion date contingent on full funding. Plans call for a wing which will house the library to extend southeast of the present structure. An attractive feature of the plan is a two-story glass enclosed reading area, which will be open to the woods on the northeast side.

Watch for word in the next issue of the Bill of Particulars on the progress of the building addition.
Moot court successes, Carl Gray dinner
Inaugurate advocacy program

Carl M. Gray, Petersburg, Indiana attorney and former Indiana University Trustee, was honored at a reception and banquet on April 14, 1981, marking the inauguration of the first year of the Carl M. Gray Advocacy Program. The program, in its present form, was made possible by a gift from Carl M. and Eulala M. Gray with the stipulation that it be used to further the education of law students in the area of trial advocacy, which deals with trial techniques, clinical programs and courtroom procedures.

The impact of the Advocacy Program at the Law School has been substantial. Ron Waicukauski, advisor to the moot court team, noted that “because of Carl Gray’s generosity we have been able to support a broader and more varied interscholastic advocacy program.” This is evidenced by the tremendous increase in activity of the Law School moot court schedule. Just two years ago the Law School was able to support teams at only two events. This year seven major competitions were entered. The Gray Endowment helps pay for the various costs incurred during the preparation of and actual participation in competitions including travel expenses, registration fees, the preparation of briefs, and legal research expenses.

Teams have participated in the following moot court competitions during the 1980-81 year:

1. Trial Advocacy Moot Court Team — Chicago, Illinois:
   Neal Crowley, James Posey, Jeff Arnol, Chris McGuigan, Ileana Rodriquez, David Madeira.

2. National Moot Court Team — Chicago, Illinois and New York, New York:

Two teams participated in the regional competition in Chicago, finishing first and second. One team continued to New York and placed third of 250 teams at the national finals.

3. Constitutional Law Moot Court Team — Chapel Hill, North Carolina:
   David Johnson, Joe Hogsett, Jack O’Laughlin.

First place finish with Jack O’Laughlin named Best Oralist.

4. Securities Law Moot Court Team — New York, New York:
   Tom Tebisen, Mark Wojciechowski, Steve Zeller.

Placed second.

5. ABA Moot Court Team — Chicago, Illinois:
   Scott Troger, Chris McGuigan.

6. Client Counseling Team — Chicago, Illinois:
   Larry Zimmerman, Susan Pitts.

7. Tri-state Moot Court Team — Columbus, Ohio:
   Jeff Lorenzo, Bradley MeLampy, Robert Millen, Jeffrey Teske.

Two teams entered, placed second and third.

Professor Waicukauski noted that “the success of the Moot Court Program at IU is unexcelled by any school in the country. Our success is a combination of the financial support of the Advocacy Program and the dedication and hard work of the participating students.”

The banquet honoring Gray was preceded by the Sherman Minton Moot Court Competition at which 24 two-person teams competed in an intraschool meet. Robert Miller and Jeffrey Teske comprised the winning team. Carl Gray, The Honorable V. Sue Shields and Attorney Steven Goldsmith served as judges for the competition.

IU alumnus and former trustee Carl M. Gray is pictured with Professor Ron Waicukauski (left), advisor to the moot court team, and Dean Sheldon Plager (right). The Carl M. Gray Advocacy Program enabled the moot court team to enter seven major competitions this year.
The Center for Law & Sports, recently established in the Indiana University School of Law, Bloomington, will present a national conference on “Law and Amateur Sports: Issues of the 80s” at the Hyatt-Regency Hotel in Indianapolis on August 20-21, 1981.

The conference will focus on the legal and regulatory issues likely to be of greatest consequence in amateur sports in the 80's. Among the issues to be addressed are liability for sports injuries, due process in enforcing amateur sports' rules, and sex discrimination. Each of these issues is of major concern at all levels of amateur sports activity.

In addition, the conference will examine issues of special concern at a single level, including the Amateur Sports Act of 1978 (primarily affecting Olympic sports), the failure to educate college athletes, and the regulation of high school athletics.

These and other issues will be analyzed by a select group of legal scholars including John Weistart and Cym Lowell, co-authors of The Law of Sports (1979), Prof. William Buss of Iowa, Dean Betty van der Smissen of Bowling Green, Mark Kadzielski of Los Angeles, Prof. James Nafziger of Willamette, and Prof. Ron Waicukauski, Director of the Center for Law & Sports.

Also participating in the conference as panelists will be 24 distinguished professionals from athletics, physical education, sociology, psychology, medicine, government, educational administration and law, each of whom has been actively involved with the legal and regulatory issues of amateur sports. The panelists include: John Toner, Secretary/Treasurer, NCAA; Donna Lopiano, President, ALAW; John B. Kelly, Jr., First Vice-President, USOC; Leroy Walker, Head Coach, 1976 USA Olympic Track and Field Team; Herb Appenzeller, Athletic Director, Guilford College and author, Sports and the Courts (1980); Willye White, U.S. Olympian; George Hanford, President, The College Board; Kenneth Clarke, Dean, University Of Illinois College of Applied Life Studies; Les Bodnar, MD, Coordinator of Sports Medicine, Notre Dame; R.G. Heckenkamp, President, Illinois State Bar Association; Ward Brown, Commissioner, Indiana High School Athletic Association; Michael Middleton, Office of Civil Rights; and many others.

This will be the first conference, national in scope, to address the problems in amateur athletics arising from the explosion of sports litigation during the past decade. It is also unique in that it brings together experts and professionals from a variety of disciplines to discuss these issues.

Indiana University’s distinguished Schools of Law at Bloomington and Indianapolis, its nationally recognized School of Health, Physical Education and Recreation and its outstanding Department of Athletics have worked closely together in planning and organizing this conference. Lilly Endowment, Inc., has provided financial support through a grant to the Center for Law & Sports.

The Center was recently established at the Indiana University School of Law-Bloomington to develop and disseminate knowledge about law and sports. It has pursued this mission by conducting research and by sponsoring a televised forum last fall on the scandal in intercollegiate sports with IU Basketball Coach Bob Knight and Big Ten Commissioner Wayne Duke.

The August conference will be the center's most significant undertaking to date and will serve as a basis for the development of the future activities of the center.

Further information about the conference and registration materials are available from the Indiana University Conference Bureau, Indiana Memorial Union L-9, Bloomington, Indiana 47405 (ph. 812-337-4661).
C. Ben Dutton, JD'40

Alumni Profile

Indiana University has few alumni who have distinguished themselves through service to school, state, and country as has C. Ben Dutton. He holds two degrees from IU, a BS in business (1938) and an LLB (1940), later changed to a JD. As an IU law student, he distinguished himself as a member of the Law Journal and was elected to the Order of the Coif. He was admitted to the Bar in 1940 and took a position as an attorney with the IE Dupont de Nemours Company. Despite holding a defense-related position, Dutton felt he could do more to serve his country in World War II and joined the United States Navy. After the war he taught at his alma mater as an assistant professor of law from 1946-47. He then entered private practice in Indianapolis where he is currently senior partner with the Indianapolis firm of Dutton, Kappes & Overman. His wife, the former Jane Stevens, is also an IU graduate (1939), and the couple has two children.

A native of Hammond, Indiana, Ben Dutton has served the legal profession in Indiana in a variety of positions. He was appointed to the Board of Managers of the Indiana State Bar Association in 1957 and continued on the board until 1963. In 1961 he was elected president of the Indiana State Bar Association. One of the projects during his term as president that he looks back on with pride was the Economic Survey of the State Bar, a study of the business side of lawyering. He was an original member of the Revised Code of Civil Procedure that went into effect in 1970, the first major revision of the code for nearly 100 years.

Also active on a national level, Dutton was appointed to the American Bar Association's House of Delegates in 1960 and served on the ABA's Board of Governors from 1971 to 1974. In other work, he was appointed director of the American Judicature Society, a position which he still holds. He received national recognition when he was nominated for the presidency of the ABA in 1978. In support of his nomination for president, then ISBA President Gerald Ewbank said, "Throughout the years he has been in the mainstream of events affecting our profession. He has been a leader in court modernization in Indiana, and has long been known for his thoughtful and progressive ideas as to needed reforms in the legal system. His scholarship in the law qualifies him as a lawyer's lawyer."

A loyal supporter of IU, Ben Dutton served as president of the IU Alumni Club of Indianapolis from 1953-54 and as president of the Law Alumni Association from 1956-57. In 1969-70 he was elected president of the Indiana University Alumni Association, a position he found most rewarding. "I believe any alumnus of the University makes an awful mistake if they don't keep an attachment with the university. My work with alumni groups has been an important part of my life. It gives me a chance to renew old friendships and to make new ones. I always seem to learn something new when I visit with fellow alumni, and I recommend it strongly to others."

C. Ben Dutton continues to be an active and progressive leader in the field of law and an unselfish servant of Indiana University.
Student organizations active at IU-Bloomington School of Law

Indiana Law Journal

The Thirty-Fourth Annual Indiana Law Journal Banquet was held recently in Bloomington with The Honorable Prentice H. Marshall of the United States District Court for the Northern District of Illinois as guest speaker.

Those attending the banquet also celebrated the installation of the 1981-82 Board of Editors. The board members are Bruce Kohn, Editor-in-Chief; Mark Edwards and Ted Yasuda, Executive Editors; Sharon Groeger, Scott Kinsey, and Lloyd T. Wilson Jr., Managing Editors; Roger Bennett and Octavis White, Articles Editors; and Caroline Knezevich, Bill Lockhart, Susan Schneider Lewin, and Daniel Serban, Note Editors. The new Staff, re-established after a hiatus of several years, also was recognized.

The Indiana Law Journal, well into its fifty-sixth year of publication, has named the Board of Editors for Volume 57. In an effort to put the journal back on its seasonal publication schedule, the labeling of issues will be changed to correspond to the calendar year, rather than the academic year, beginning in Volume 57. Before the new editorial board assumes control, three more issues of Volume 56 will appear containing articles and notes on a broad range of subjects. Some of these include wrongful discharge remedies, government disclosure of trade secrets, sex selection abortion, a social science analysis of voir dire, the rule of insurable interests and the principle of indemnity as measures of damages in property insurance cases, feminist jurisprudence, hospices, and federal question jurisdiction.

Subscriptions to Volume 56, as well as Volume 57, are available for $13.50. Requests for subscriptions should be sent to Shirley Wright, Business Manager, Indiana Law Journal, Indiana University School of Law, Bloomington, Indiana 47405.

BALSA sponsors variety of projects

The Black American Law Students Association, Inc. was founded at Indiana University in 1970 and has grown from a membership of six to a membership of 45. The regional mix of members ranges from the island of Guam to Gary, Indiana; from New York City to Seattle, Washington. Its active committees arise from a five-point program and include: African Affairs, Economic Development, Nominations, Special Projects, Program, Constitution and By-Laws, Library, Job Bank, Fund Raising, National Convention, and Hospitality.

As a family of Black law students, the successes of BALSA within the Law School environment during this administration have run the gamut from Moot Court Competition to a hilarious Gong Show involving the entire Law School staff, faculty, and student body. BALSA has also sponsored guest speakers; researched legislation affecting American investments in South Africa and written to those Congress persons sponsoring such legislation; successfully gained seating on seven decision-making Law School faculty committees; hosted a pot luck, had discos, and sold T-shirts to raise funds for our ongoing activities.

The organization has also created first year Welcome Packages with academic 'survival' data, coordinated “Help Sessions” for first-year students, participated in the Educational Assistance Program, solicited books for the BALSA Law Library, developed their own Job Bank Referral Service, as well as coordinated with other student groups and community groups on career-related and human rights-related matters.

The highlight of this administration was the production of the Black History Week Law Symposium, drawing together 26 years of Black law achievements and Black alumni.

The activities that this chapter of BALSA has initiated speak to the myriad of goals espoused by Black law students locally and nationally. President for the coming year is Charles Bush.

Officers of the Black American Law Student Association for 1980-81 pictured left to right are Max Richardson, Joan Stranger, Gary Davis, and Barbara Malone.
Latino Law Association hosts conference

On February 27, 28, and March 1, 1981, the Latino Law Student Association of the Indiana University School of Law hosted La Raza Legal Alliance Midwest Regional Conference. La Raza Legal Alliance (LRLA) is a national organization dedicated to the protection of Latino interests in the United States, as well as the furtherance of the intellectual, academic, cultural and community needs of the Latino.

Panel discussions in the areas of immigration, labor, administration of justice, and education were featured. In the area of immigration the panelists were Jose Bracamonte, a minority student advisor at the University of Michigan Law School, and Juan Soliz, a staff attorney with the Legal Assistance Foundation of Chicago. Labor panelists were Baldemar Velazquez, president of the Farm Labor Organizing Committee (FLOC), and John Garcia, president of the Texas Farmworkers Support Committee.

Ruben Sandoval, a leading Chicano attorney involved in police brutality cases, discussed the current situation in the Southwest regarding the administration of justice. Also on this panel was Professor Patrick Baude, who spoke on the foreseeable trends in the eighties.

Tony Baez, an independent education consultant at the Midwest Desegregation Assistance Center, University of Wisconsin, Milwaukee Campus, presented issues and special problems involved in the enforcement of desegregation. Virginia Martinez, a self-employed attorney in Chicago, presented the efforts of the Mexican American Legal Defense and Educational Fund (MALDEF) in the area of education.

More than 225 people attended the three-day event. It was a weekend of growth, both culturally and intellectually.

Student Bar Association sponsors Law Week

The Student Bar Association sponsors a variety of activities during each year. This year during the national celebration of Law Week, April 4-11, the SBA sponsored a week of activities including a movie titled “Free Press v. Fair Trial by Jury”, followed by discussion, a lecture on law and psychiatry, a career symposium, a mock trial, an informal get together with members of the Farm Labor Organizing Committee (FLOC), and John Garcia, president of the Texas Farmworkers Support Committee.

The group also sponsored a series of dinners hosted by faculty members in their homes, to foster closer relationships between students and faculty. A special project of the group was the revitalization of the Demurrer’s Club which met periodically at Nick’s and provided an opportunity for faculty to give humorous speeches.

The president of the Student Bar Association for the coming year is Marce Gonzales.

The Student Law Association is an organization designed to promote student participation at the Law School. While membership consists of all students enrolled at the Law School, nine members, three from each class, are elected to serve as a Board of Representatives.

An important function of the association is to appoint members of the student body to administrative committees of the Law School and to ensure that student participation and involvement in committees is responsible and meaningful. Every functioning administrative committee of the Law School, with the exception of the Promotion, Tenure and Reappointment Committee, and the Dean’s Faculty Advisory Committee has student representatives on it. Another major function of the organization is to serve as the student advisory committee to Assistant Dean for Student Affairs Leonard Fromm. The committee meets periodically with Dean Fromm to discuss Law School policies, student concerns, and other matters of interest to the student body.
New students attend
Spring Law Day

On Saturday, April 4, 1981, 75 newly admitted students, among the best of this year's highly competitive pool, came to the campus to participate in the second annual Spring Law Day. The program is designed to introduce students to the study of law in general, but in particular to give insight into the quality and rigor that is the earmark of the law school experience at IU.

Among the various activities of the day were a series of seminars led by faculty members dealing with various legal topics of current interest. Faculty participants and seminar topics included: Professor Doug Boshkoff — What's Wrong With Legal Evidence; Professor Ilene Nagel — The Lawyer and the Expert Witness; Professor Harry Pratter — Promises, Promises; and Professor Michael Carrico — Death and Taxes.

The success of the program is reflected by the fact that a high percentage of these strong candidates enter the IU School of Law.

No names, no fines, No problems

Any law alumni who, through an extended lapse of memory, still may possess overdue materials from the Law Library, can find personal redemption this summer as the library announces its policy of "no questions asked." Because many missing volumes, especially older ones, are valuable for research and are difficult to replace, the library is offering complete anonymity and immunity from fines until Sept. 1, 1981, to those alumni who return borrowed materials to the Circulation Dept., Law Library, Law Building, Indiana University, Bloomington, Ind. 47405.

Applications increase
By 12% for 1981

Amid woeful predictions of a declining law student applicant pool, the IU-Bloomington School of Law is experiencing a 12% increase in applications for 1981. The strength of the admissions program is a result of a well organized program of campus visits, pre-law advisor meetings, and alumni recruiting.

Assistant Dean Frank Motley, who has orchestrated much of this effort pointed out, "none of this could have been accomplished without the tireless efforts of the admissions staff, Pat Clark and Pat Frazo, the Admissions Committee, Chairman Harry Pratter, Professors Julia Lamber and Bryant Garth, and law students Brad Barton and James Palmer and the important efforts of our alumni."

Many individuals gave of their time and energy to spread the word about IU's law program. They include Richard Boston, Charles Brower, Don Carrillo, Richard Epps, Richard Harkness, and Julia Johnson.

Alumni as judges
For Trial Techniques

A number of IU alumni volunteered to judge final trials as a part of the Law School's expanded Trial Techniques Program. This spring semester, 47 second- and third-year students participated in the program.

Professor J.A. Tanford noted, "There was a great interest on the part of alumni in this project resulting in many more volunteers than trials. The students have praised the program and have spoken very highly of the value added by the use of trial lawyers as judges."

Special appreciation is due to those alumni who participated: Judge Kenneth Todd, AB'67, JD'70; Scott Fore, AB'75, JD'78; Robert Hepburn, JD'80; Tom Ebbinghouse, JD'80; Michael Rudicil, JD'80; Russell Mahoney, BS'59, MBA'73, JD'73; Edward Najam, AB'69; Geoff Grodner, AB'72, JD'75; Lou Britton, AB'74, JD'77; and Len Bunger, BS'43, JD'49.

Members of the Indiana Supreme Court held a hearing recently at the Indiana University Bloomington law school as a part of their annual effort to give IU law students an opportunity to see the court in action. From left are Justices Roger O. DeBruler, Angola; Dixon W. Prentice, Jeffersonville; Donald H. Hunter, Anderson; Chief Justice Richard M. Givan, Indianapolis; Justice Alfred J. Pivarnik, Valparaiso, and Sheldon Plager, dean of the IU Bloomington law school.
IU-Bloomington Commencement ceremonies held May 9

Graduation activities for the Class of '81 were held on Saturday, May 9th. The day's events included the University Commencement ceremony in the morning followed by the Law School Senior Recognition Ceremonies and reception in the afternoon.

The One Hundred Fifty-second Annual University Commencement was held in Assembly Hall at 10:00 a.m. with Indiana University President John W. Ryan presiding. One hundred seventy students received degrees. One new feature of the commencement ceremony was the hooding of all graduates receiving the Juris Doctor by members of the Law School faculty. Among those receiving honorary degrees were three lawyers: Carl M. Gray, Wilbur Frank Pell, Jr., and Justin Armstrong Stanley.

The law graduates gathered in the afternoon at the Indiana University Auditorium for the Senior Recognition Ceremonies with Dean Sheldon J. Plager presiding. Gerald Moss, President of the Bloomington Law School Alumni Association, gave a charge to the new alumni which was followed by the keynote address by Professor F. Reed Dickerson. Professor Dickerson, in his characteristically humorous yet sometimes biting manner, challenged the Class of '81 to use the skills acquired in law school to affect needed reforms in policies and practices of the legal profession. Dickerson's upcoming book, Materials on Legal Drafting, is dedicated to the Class of 1981. Gregory C. Knapp was elected by his peers to be the student speaker.

FROM THE FOUNDATION:
1980 Law Fund giving breaks all records

Contributions to the 1980 School of Law Fund reached an all time record according to Thomas M. McGlasson, secretary and legal counsel at the Indiana University Foundation. Gifts from alumni, friends, and charitable trusts reached a total of $144,208.38. Law Alumni contributions showed the largest gain, increasing 24%.

Individuals giving $500 or more are recognized as members of the Dean's Counselors. The School of Law would like to thank the following alumni and friends who have been named Dean's Counselors for the 1980 year.

Mr. & Mrs. George B. Gavit
Mr. Carl M. Gary
Mrs. Doris C. Greenough
Mr. William C. Greenough
Mrs. Constance Frick Irwin
Mr. Daniel James
Mr. Jeffrey J. Kennedy
Mr. & Mrs. Earl W. Kintner
Mr. James A. Klineman
Mr. Willis K. Kunz
Mr. Thomas R. Lenton
Mr. & Mrs. Thomas Lofton
Mr. Robert A. Lucas
Mr. R. Bruce McLean
Mrs. Jeanne S. Miller
Mrs. Ruth C. Myers
Mr. Sidney Neuman
Mr. & Mrs. H. Theodore Noell
Mr. Thomas G. Ottenweller
Dean & Mrs. Sheldon J. Plager
Mr. Gerald R. Redding
Mr. William R. Riggs
Mr. & Mrs. L. David Rogers
Mr. Saul I. Ruman
Mr. & Mrs. Charles Rusen, Jr.
Mr. Jerome W. Shay
Mr. & Mrs. Lawrence Stentzel, II
Mr. R. Allen Wilson
Mr. Frank Wrenick

The following organizations, law firms and corporation, many of which have law alumni on their staffs, gave $500 or more:

John W. Anderson Foundation
Chicago Bar Foundation
Cook, Wetzel and Egan, Ltd.
Hoffman-LaRoche
Indiana Continuing Legal Education Forum
Estate of Frieda Jump
Kirkland & Ellis (Keith Masters Scholarship Fund)
Neuman, Williams, Anderson and Olson
Professional Education Corporation
Emma B. Riley Charitable Trust (ira C. Batman Fellowship Fund)
Edward C. & Hazel L. Stephenson Foundation (Law School Scholarships)

For more information about the Dean's Counselor's and the School of Law Fund, contact Tom McGlasson, School of Law Fund, Indiana University Foundation, P.O. Box 500, Bloomington, Indiana 47402.

F. Reed Dickerson has kept busy in his first year of “retirement.” During the Fall 1980 term he served as visiting professor at Southern Illinois University. During that term he addressed the Indiana Judicial Conference’s Seminar on the interpretation of statutes and the Judge Advocate General’s School’s course on legislative drafting. In April he spoke on rule drafting techniques to the Administrative Drafting Workshop of the Michigan State Bar Association’s Administrative Law Section in Lansing, and served as consultant to the American Bar Association’s Standing Committee on Constitution and Bylaws, for which he revised the Rules of the House of Delegates and drafted amendments to ABA’s Constitution and Bylaws. In March, Governor Orr reappointed Dickerson to the Indiana Commission on Uniform State Laws, of which he has been chairman since 1969. Also this spring, he was made a life member of the American Law Institute. He is putting the finishing touches on his forthcoming Materials on Legal Drafting and its accompanying teacher’s manual, scheduled for publication by West Publishing Company in July.

Hendrik H. Hartog was awarded an American Bar Foundation Fellowship in American Legal History for the 1981-82 year. He will present a paper to the Law and Society meetings on the transformation of the municipal corporation in 19th century America. He will have an article published in June in the Journal of Legal Studies titled “Property as Government in 18th Century America: The Case of New York City.” In August the New York University Press will publish Law in the American Revolution and the Revolution in the Law, edited by Hartog.

Ilene H. Nagel was on sabbatical during the Fall semester as a visiting scholar at Cambridge University, the Institute of Criminology, Trinity College and the Faculty of Law where she continued research and writing on the forthcoming book, Decision Making in Federal District Courts. She also spent a month as a scholar-in-residence at the Rockefeller Foundation Study and Conference Center in Bellagio, Italy. In May she chaired a session at the Law and Society meetings on “The Role of Gender in Criminal and Civil Law.” In August, she will chair a session at the American Sociological Association meetings on Proposed Reforms in Federal Sentencing: The Implications of Research for S1437.

William D. Popkin served as a panelist at the Tax Section of the Association of American Law Schools meeting in San Antonio. The discussion subject was “Taxation of Married Couples.”

J.A. Tanford signed a contract with Bobbs-Merrill to produce a classroom textbook on trial advocacy which should be published in 1982. The book will be the first of its kind, combining cases, materials and problems on trial practice. It will gather and present in one format the substantive and procedural law of litigation, excerpts from books and articles and strategy and tactics, and a series of problems and materials for weekly practice exercises and full simulated trials. Tanford addressed the Indiana Continuing Legal Education Forum’s Institute on Evidence in Indianapolis on May 22 on the recent evidence decisions of the Supreme Court.

Ann Gellis recently named to the Law School’s permanent faculty, received her JD magna cum laude from New York University School of Law in 1971. She was an associate with the New York firm of Cleary, Gottlieb, Steen & Hamilton from 1971 to 1978. She has been visiting assistant professor of law at IU since August 1980. Professor Gellis will teach in the areas of local government, real estate finance and municipal finance.

David Sive will be a visiting professor and practitioner in residence. He received his LLB from Columbia Law School in 1948. Since 1963 he has been a senior partner with the firm Winer, Neuberger and Sive, New York City. He has taught at New York University, University of Colorado, University of Utah, and has lectured at fourteen other institutions. He has published widely in the field of environmental law and is presently writing a textbook on environmental litigation. His teaching program will include environmental law and a course or seminar in the civil procedure/environmental law area.

Associate Dean John Baker will be on leave of absence for the academic year 1981-82, during which time he will be a visiting professor at New York University Law School. During his absence Karen Cutright will serve as visiting assistant dean for academic affairs. Cutright, who holds the JD from Washington University, was formerly assistant dean of the Indiana University-Bloomington Law School from 1974 to 1977. She clerked for Judge William Garrard of the Indiana Court of Appeals from 1977 to 1979, and since 1979 has been an associate at Ice Miller Donadio and Ryan.

Allen M. Sowle, LLB (JD)'51, BS'50, is vice president and assistant general counsel for Associates Financial Services Company Inc., the consumer finance subsidiary of Associates Corporation of North America. Based in Dallas, Texas, Sowle joined the company in 1947.

Robert J. Kinsey, JD'54, AB'52, Howard County Circuit Court Judge, delivered a presentation on the courts and the criminal justice system to students at Indiana University-Kokomo last fall. Focusing on problems such as juvenile care, overcrowded prisons, and court dockets, Kinsey explained the role of the individual in the criminal judicial system and elaborated on prevention programs to combat crime. The former article editor for the Indiana Law Journal made his presentation to the students as part of IUK's College Colloquium series.

Joseph L. Smith, JD'54, is now director of annual giving at Wabash College, Crawfordsville, Indiana.

Gary R. Hildreth, JD'63, BS'60, has been promoted to corporate counsel at Armco, Middletown, Ohio. Hildreth previously served as general attorney for Armco in Houston since 1978.

R. Scott Plain, JD'64, BS'59, has been inducted as a Fellow in the American College of Trial Lawyers. The college is a national association geared to improve the standards of trial practice, the administration of justice, and the ethics of the trial branch of the profession. Membership is by invitation of the association's Board of Regents. Plain has been in the practice of law in Owensboro, Kentucky, since 1964. He has served as governor of the Kentucky Bar Association since 1977, and is a partner in the law firm of Wilson, Wilson & Plain.

James J. Bajgrowicz, LLB (JD)'67, of Santa Rosa, Calif., is the 1981-82 governor of the Pacific Central District of Optimist International. Bajgrowicz is also a member of the Sonoma County Bar Association, Trial Lawyers Association, Sonoma County Estate Planning Council, former president of the Sonoma County Legal Services Foundation, and founding director of the Sonoma County Aid to Victims and Witnesses Program. He also serves on the California State Bar Standing Committee on Lawyer Referral Services.

George R. Dalby, JD'68, BS'66, has been named a partner in the Toledo office of the public accounting firm of Arthur Young & Company. Dalby joined the Toledo office in 1980, and works principally in the areas of income and estate planning for businesses and their owners and managers.

Devon Weaver, JD'68, has been elected to the board of trustees of the College of the Ozarks, Clarksville, Arkansas. Weaver is assistant secretary and associate counsel of North American Company for Life and Health Insurance. He has been active as a board member, chapter adviser, and alumni director for Phi Delta Theta fraternity. He is also a former instructor of business law at St. Francis College, Fort Wayne, Ind., and former associate counsel of Lincoln National Life.

Barbara Kelley, JD'73, AB'70, general counsel at ACTION, the federal agency for volunteer service, visited the Bloomington campus last fall to encourage students to put their skills to work for the benefit of poor people in the U.S. and in overseas developing countries. Kelley joined ACTION in 1978, after serving as the associate general counsel to Blue Cross and Blue Shield in Denver. As general counsel to ACTION, Kelley is responsible for providing legal services and support to all of the agency's programs.

Robert L. Lewis, JD'73, AB'70, is now in private practice with longtime Gary attorney Hilbert Bradley. Lewis, formerly... with the Indiana Employment Security Division, also serves as a public defender in the Lake County Criminal Courts.

Thomas L. Pytynia, JD'73, AB'69, has become general counsel and secretary of IVAC Corporation in San Diego, California. IVAC Corporation is a wholly-owned subsidiary of Eli Lilly and Company, and is involved in the manufacture and distribution of medical devices including electronic thermometers and IV infusion control systems.

Geoffrey M. Grodner, JD'78, AB'75, has joined Scott E. Fore, JD'78, AB'75, in the practice of general law in Bloomington.

Linda Lanam, JD'75, BS'70, was recently elected to the board of directors of Big Sisters of Philadelphia, Inc. Lanam, who is employed as an attorney for Insurance Companies of North America, is also serving as president of the Philadelphia Women's Network, and has been active in organizing local fundraising events for the Women's Campaign Fund.

1976-81

David K. Sentman, JD'76, has been promoted to treasurer of CTS Corporation, Elkhart, Indiana. Sentman joined CTS in 1976 as legal counsel and was elected assistant treasurer in 1980.

When the 52 former hostages stepped off their planes at the Rhein-Main Air Base in West Germany last January, Craig Anderson, JD'77, was nearby, ready to help them. As a U.S. Air Force captain, Anderson is one of five lawyers assigned to the 435th Tactical Airlift Wing, the unit whose hospital planes flew the freed Americans from Algiers to Rhein-Main on their way to the U.S. Air Force Hospital in Weisbaden. Anderson has served the Air Force in Germany since last June, and may be transferred to Crete this fall.

Cynthia Fender Messman Bauer, JD'77, AB'74, and Mark Allen Bauer, JD'78, are the proud parents of their first child, Garner Lang. Mark maintains a general practice in Goodland, Indiana, with the firm of Richards & Bauer, while Cindy practices part-time in the areas of criminal law, family law, and civil rights.

Marc R. Kells, JD'78, AB'75, became the Monroe County Superior Court judge effective January 1, 1981.

Richard D. Small, JD'78, AB'75, has established a general practice of law in Indianapolis, Indiana.

Patrick S. Brady, JD'79, has published an article, "Slavery, Race, and the Criminal Law in Antebellum North Carolina: A Re-

THE CHINESE CONNECTION

In what was probably the first "reunion" of IU-Bloomington School of Law alumni in the People's Republic of China, Chu Dong Kwan, JD'49, met with Michael F. O'Laughlin, JD'75, last January in Shanghai. Dr. Chu is a senior attorney at the Shanghai Lawyers Association and serves as a visiting researcher at the Research Institute of Legal Science at the Shanghai Academy of Social Science. He is engaged in the international affairs sections, and on the behalf of various Chinese organizations handles transnational legal matters relating to China. Since October 1980, O'Laughlin has been living in Beijing (Peking), where he advises Chinese and American corporations in connection with international trade matters and technology transfers. He has also lectured on international trade law at the Beijing Institute of Foreign Trade and currently serves as a foreign legal advisor to the State Capital Construction Commission.

When a classmate about O'Laughlin's work in China appeared in Indiana Alumni magazine last year, Chu was pleased to learn about a fellow IU alumnus living in the area, and the two were introduced by another American lawyer working in China. This "Chinese Connection" has lead to a new friendship between Chu and O'Laughlin, both of whom would like to see increased ties between IU and its friends abroad.

In discussing his role as an "American in Beijing," O'Laughlin credited the Bloomington law faculty with giving him many of the skills necessary to practice international law in a foreign country. "Some of the teaching materials developed by IU's School of Law (which I used as a student in Bloomington) have been very useful in teaching international trade law to my students in China," he said. O'Laughlin also recalled the benefits of his affiliation with the Bloomington student chapter of the International Law Association, of which he served as vice-president in 1974-75.

Traditionally, the differences between Chinese and American law have been great. O'Laughlin said, but recent developments are creating a structure for the Chinese judicial system which will tend to make it similar to that of other modern countries. "After several attempts to establish a strong judicial system, and after the problems encountered by the legal profession during the turmoil of the Cultural Revolution, China's leaders are presently active in the development of a system of laws designed to help China modernize," he said, citing the recent Gang of Four trials as one example of this effort to develop a useful legal system for the Chinese.

As this period of modernization progresses, and as business/legal ties between China and the U.S. increase, O'Laughlin and Chu would appreciate receiving used legal materials relating to international business for use with their Chinese students. O'Laughlin said that materials on construction, finance, and management would be particularly helpful, although any general texts on commercial law or business would be put to good use. Alumni wishing to contribute such materials should contact Michael O'Laughlin, Xi Yuan Hotel, Room 1059, Beijing, China, or Chu Dong Kwan, Shanghai Lawyers Association, Shanghai, China.

In the chilly air of Shanghai last January, Michael F. O'Laughlin (left), JD'75, posed with fellow alumnus Chu Dong Kwan, JD'49. Both attorneys are engaged in transnational legal matters pertaining to China and the U.S. during the turmoil of the Cultural Revolution, China's leaders are presently active in the development of a system of laws designed to help China modernize," he said, citing the recent Gang of Four trials as one example of this effort to develop a useful legal system for the Chinese.

As this period of modernization progresses, and as business/legal ties between China and the U.S. increase, O'Laughlin and Chu would appreciate receiving used legal materials relating to international business for use with their Chinese students. O'Laughlin said that materials on construction, finance, and management would be particularly helpful, although any general texts on commercial law or business would be put to good use. Alumni wishing to contribute such materials should contact Michael O'Laughlin, Xi Yuan Hotel, Room 1059, Beijing, China, or Chu Dong Kwan, Shanghai Lawyers Association, Shanghai, China.

In the chilly air of Shanghai last January, Michael F. O'Laughlin (left), JD'75, posed with fellow alumnus Chu Dong Kwan, JD'49. Both attorneys are engaged in transnational legal matters pertaining to China and the U.S. during the turmoil of the Cultural Revolution, China's leaders are presently active in the development of a system of laws designed to help China modernize," he said, citing the recent Gang of Four trials as one example of this effort to develop a useful legal system for the Chinese.

As this period of modernization progresses, and as business/legal ties between China and the U.S. increase, O'Laughlin and Chu would appreciate receiving used legal materials relating to international business for use with their Chinese students. O'Laughlin said that materials on construction, finance, and management would be particularly helpful, although any general texts on commercial law or business would be put to good use. Alumni wishing to contribute such materials should contact Michael O'Laughlin, Xi Yuan Hotel, Room 1059, Beijing, China, or Chu Dong Kwan, Shanghai Lawyers Association, Shanghai, China.

Craig R. Edwards, JD'80, MBA '80, AB'76, has joined the law department staff at Washington National Insurance Company in Evanston, Illinois. Edwards services the district agency, executive, human resources, and public relations departments of the company.

As an attorney in the corporate law division of A.E. Staley Manufacturing Co., Decatur, Illinois, Lorraine Coopwood, JD'81, AB'78, is that city's first black female attorney. She is one of three corporate attorneys in Staley's eight member legal department.
A CALL FOR SUPPORT

Membership Plans in the Indiana University Alumni Association

More than 50,000 alumni have already endowed their support by becoming members in the IU Alumni Association. This action has created a special fund — dedicated to provide alumni services for these members.

Special benefits of membership in the association include:
- Membership in the IU-Bloomington School of Law Alumni Association;
- Bill of Particulars, reporting the far-reaching activities of your alma mater;
- Educational Travel Program, offering first-class tours throughout the United States and abroad;
- Alumni Clubs, providing a network to alumni in over 50 different cities in the U.S.;
- Group Life Insurance, an especially smart buy in these times of rising prices;
- Alumni Family Camps, featuring a relaxed atmosphere at reasonable prices;
- Indiana Alumni magazine, highlighting the changing news of Indiana University.

And when you join the Association as a life member, you receive one additional benefit; you’ll never have to wonder whether you’ve renewed your membership!

Please enroll me as a member of the Indiana University Alumni Association and the IU-Bloomington School of Law Alumni Association. Enclosed is my check payable to the IU Alumni Association.

Please Indicate Your Choice

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Single Annual — $13</th>
<th>Family Annual — $15</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Single Life — $200 Full Payment</td>
<td>Family Life — $250 Full Payment</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>$49 First Installment on 5-year Plan</td>
<td>$62 First Installment on 5-year Plan</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>$29 First Installment on 10-year Plan</td>
<td>$36 First Installment on 10-year Plan</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Name ......................................................... Degree Date ..................
Street ...................................................................... State ....... Zip ..........

Mail to: Indiana University Alumni Association, M-17, Indiana Memorial Union, Bloomington, Indiana 47405.
CALENDAR

JULY
1    Beaux Arts Trio, Musical Arts Center
10, 11, Oklahoma, 17, 18 Musical Arts Center

AUGUST
10   IU School of Law-Bloomington, — Indianapolis Alumni Reception in connection with the American Bar Association meeting in New Orleans
19   Indiana State Bar Association, Board of Managers Meeting, Bloomington
26   School of Law Fall semester begins

SEPTEMBER
12   IU football at Northwestern

OCTOBER
2, 3 Bloomington Law Conference (See page 1, this issue)
3    IU vs. Michigan, IU Memorial Stadium
10   IU football at Iowa
15   Annual Law Alumni Association meeting in conjunction with the Indiana State Bar Association, Evansville

NOVEMBER
7, 14 The Merry Wives of Windsor, Musical Arts Center
7    IU vs. Wisconsin, IU Memorial Stadium
14   IU football at Illinois
13, 14 Law School Board of Visitors meeting
21   IU vs. Purdue, IU Memorial Stadium

17   IU vs. Minnesota, IU Memorial Stadium
24   IU football at Ohio State
24, 31 The Merry Wife of Windsor, Musical Arts Center
31   IU football at Michigan State