Faculty News

Emeritus Professor Tom Schornhorst on August 21, 2012, presented an oral argument to the Indiana Court of Appeals in the case of Jerry L. Kindred v. State of Indiana. This was a combined direct and collateral appeal stemming from appellant Kindred's conviction of one count of Class A felony child molesting in Greene County. The issues involved errors in the admission of hearsay and opinion evidence, prosecutorial misconduct, and ineffective assistance of trial counsel. An archived video recording of the argument is available at the website of the Indiana Supreme Court and Court of Appeals.
