This Week in the Law School

And just like that, it's over! Best of luck on all your exams. For our 3Ls, best wishes on a successful bar exam, wherever you may find yourself taking it. We've had a tremendous year and hope you've had fun along the way. Keep us posted on what you're up to over the summer. We'd be thrilled to share your stories on Facebook, Twitter, Instagram, etc. For our returning students, we will see you again in August! Have a safe and enjoyable summer. We'll be around if you need anything.

Study Break!

Has your carrell told you to stop studying already? In there an imprint in your library chair where you've sat for the last week straight? Well step on out of the library and stop by Room 121 for a while. Reward yourself and take a short break from studying to relax with the Student Bar Association! Pizza, snacks, and beverages will be provided. You're welcome to grab food and head back to studying or stay and relax for a bit. Room 121, 6 to 8 p.m.

Faculty News

At the annual meeting of the American Society of International Law last week, Prof. Hannah Buxbaum was elected to serve as a vice president. Congratulations, Hannah!

Congratulations as well to Prof. Jessica Eaglin, who has been selected by Princeton University as a 2017-18 Law and Public Affairs Fellow. We look forward to having her back in fall 2018.
