Federalism in 2020: Local and Federal Government Conflicts in Times of Crisis

With just over two-thirds of the year behind us, 2020 has already been rife with constitutional dilemmas. Between mitigating the COVID-19 pandemic and responding to massive Black Lives Matter protests, local governments have fallen into a precarious spot in trying to solve the nation's problems. Federal pressures on cities' handling of these problems open many questions on how the Tenth Amendment operates during times of crisis. Join us via Zoom on Constitution Day, September 17th, at 6:30 p.m. as we explore these questions with Marion County Prosecutor Ryan Mears, Indianapolis Corporation Counsel Donnie Morgan, and Scott Chinn, a partner at Faegre Drinker Biddle & Reath LLP, who will be moderating. Register here.
