ANNOUNCEMENTS

Considerable discussion has been aroused by the two comments which have appeared in the INDIANA LAW JOURNAL presenting different viewpoints in the matter of "Written Opinions in the Appellate Court in Cases Affirmed." We shall be glad to publish communications on this question with a view to crystallizing the sentiment of the members of the State Bar Association.

The following letter is from a member of the Wabash bar.

Editor, Indiana Law Journal
Bloomington, Indiana.

Dear Sir:

Should there be written opinions by the Appellate Court in cases affirmed? Yes.

The writer is in hearty accord with the views expressed by the authors of the article bearing on this subject in the March, 1929 number of the JOURNAL.

This matter is of sufficient importance that the sentiment of the Bar should be obtained, and carried out.

Yours very truly,

(signed) H. N. HIPSKIND.
