Mr. Buckley,

You are welcome to use the piece. We simply ask that you include information indicating that our journal originally published the article (which it looks like is common practice on the website). This does not appear to be an instance of republishing the piece, but if so, email me a Publisher's Permission to Publish form and I'll fill it out.

Best,
Brian Korpics

Dear Editor,

One of our faculty members has published an article in your law review. I am writing to request your permission to post this work in the Indiana University Maurer School of Law Library's electronic repository of faculty publications (<http://www.repository.law.indiana.edu/facpub/>). May we include this work? The specific title is listed below. Thank you very much for your consideration.

Sincerely,
