Death of Judge Reinhard Casts Gloom Over University

Follow this and additional works at: https://www.repository.law.indiana.edu/reinhard

Part of the Legal Biography Commons, and the Legal Education Commons

Recommended Citation
https://www.repository.law.indiana.edu/reinhard/4

This Writing about Dean George Reinhard is brought to you for free and open access by the Law School Deans at Digital Repository @ Maurer Law. It has been accepted for inclusion in George Reinhard (1902-1906) by an authorized administrator of Digital Repository @ Maurer Law. For more information, please contact rvaughan@indiana.edu.
DEATH OF JUDGE REINHARD
CASTS GLOOM OVER UNIVERSITY

Law School of Indiana a Living Memorial to His Uniting Zeal.

It was with profound sadness death he went to Martinsville to take treatment at one of the sanatoriums, but he became worse immediately after arriving there, and was compelled to return home. He arrived in Bloomington Friday evening, July 13, at 7 o'clock, and with his family drove to his house. Shortly after going into the sitting room, while talking to his son-in-law, T. J. Louden, he suddenly collapsed and fell to the floor.

The unexpected ending of a useful and honorable career, came with tragic suddenness; with stinging grief to the surviving relatives, and, as a personal bereavement to each and every member of his co-workers in the faculty, and to his disciples, and students, to whom the departed had endeared himself apart from his exceptionally meritorious, work, by his sterling character, loyal nature, and lovable personality.

For several months the Judge had been in poor health, but the fatal termination was not expected. On the Wednesday before his He expired in a few minutes. Death was due to heart trouble, which was brought about by fatty degeneration of the organ.

Judge Reinhard was regarded as one of the foremost jurists of the State. His opinions in the Appellate Court are noted for their clearness and strength. He is the author of "Reinhard's Indiana Criminal Practice," and "Reinhard's Agency," one of the authorities on the quotation of agencies.

He was past grand master of the Odd Fellows of Indiana. Perhaps it is best to say something which he has said about the future: "I cease to live, but my hope is not extinguished, and my work is not ended; for the memory of the late Judge Reinhard will live, and his influence will be felt, not only in Indiana, but in the country at large."
FOOTBALL STOCK RICKS
(Continued from page one.)

why all the men are eager to be ready to be substituted on the first eleven, if the call should come.

The "Freshmen" team was delighted yesterday, when Johnnie Talbott appeared in his togs, and took up his work at the pivotal position. He has been out of the game for some time, but from now on he will captain and play quarter for the Freshmen, which will make him an excellent understudy for Captain Hare. This is all the more important, as Boyle, who was sub-quarter last year, is ineligible.

The interest shown yesterday, was the best of the season, and with an even break of luck with the Alumni list, Indiana's stock will continue to rise. Saturday's game with the Freshmen, which will make him an excellent understudy for Captain Hare, will most likely be, "Get ready for Wabash, Oct. 6."

WINONA SUMMER SCHOOL
(Continued from page one.)

scientific world to-day.

Dr. J. P. Hodge, professor of Biology in Clark University spent two weeks at the station, devoting most of his time to research work with the class in Nature Study and giving one lecture each day to the assembled students.

Dr. Dennis, of Earlham, delivered a number of interesting lectures during the term.

Dr. John M. Coulter, former president of Indiana University and now professor of Biology in the University of Chicago, delivered two lectures before the assembled classes.

Boating and swimming were most popular, tennis courts were well kept. A number of nocturnal picnics and marshmallow bakes were given, and all in all this term at Winona was pleasant and prosperous.

DEATH OF JUDGE REINHARD
(Continued from page one.)

the best example of his untiring efforts, however, is the law school of Indiana University. He worked with untiring zeal for the advancement of this institution and by his efforts made it one of the leading law schools of the West. He was prominent in the formation of the American Bar School Association. Since he had been dean of the college he had changed the system of instructions from the text methods to the case system. -T. E. E.}

"Cupid" Railsback, former star football player, was here last week piloting his brother through the first week of the proverbial Freshman. "Cupid" is now engaged in the commission business at Springfield, Ill.

Kappa Sigma dances Friday evening.

Earl C. Slipper, '06, is doing astronomical work at the Lowell Observatory, Flagstaff, Arizona. Waldemar M. Stempel, '05, is working on a scholarship at Cornell University.

The newest leather, Indiana shoes, at Kahn's.

L. C. Gifford ex-09, is city editor of the Columbus (Ind.) Times of which W. E. Marsh, '05, is editor.

Carl Carr, ex-08, is principal of the Mitchell High School. Miss Leona Greer, of Seymour, and a new student, enrolled yesterday afternoon.

The barbs of the Freshman class, met in caucus at 4:00 this afternoon to nominate a candidate for class president. Burkholder, center on the second eleven, and John Whittenberger, were the candidates.

The following students registered this morning: Orpheus C. Kern, '10, Union City; Lloyd G. Balfour, '07, Columbus, O.; S. D. Heckman, '97, Nappanee; Archibald S. Cardes, '10, Fort Wayne; Paul R. Purman, '10, Montpelier; Dale T. Koontz, '07, Sidney. This brings the total enrollment to 1,020, about fifty above the total enrollment for the entire term last year.

Messrs. Victor Eugene Ruehl '08, of Bloomington, Walter F. Buckthal, '09, of Freelandville and Moses McDaniel, '09, of Brooklyn enrolled yesterday afternoon.

THE DAILY STUDENT TUESDAY, SEPTEMBER 25, 1906